Where are the Cats to Live?

It's cosiest to live together, the cats feel. But where are they to live when the girl and boy who own them don't want to live together any more?

A strongly told story about what happens to the smallest members of the family when the largest decide to move away from each other.

Magical stories without words.

In 2016 we added a new genre to the book palette! WORD-FREE books. These are books that can be read by proficient and poor readers alike, but that give those less proficient in the 6-9 target group that special feeling of finally having read a whole book. On their own!
