Anneli Klepp, Sandra Steffensen (ill.)

Pet Problems

A total crisis in Line's world.

Line is looking after Emma's super cute hamster. And everything would have been just fine – if her supersonically irritating cousin Anton hadn't come to visit.

Suddenly everything goes wrong – terribly wrong – and Line's world is plunged into a state of complete crisis. But is there still hope after all?

With warmth and humour, Anneli Klepp writes about situations that are easy to identify with.

This is the seventh book in the series about Line.

Anneli Klepp, Sandra Steffensen (ill.)

Anneli Klepp (b. 1966) was born and raised in Kirkenes and lives on the outskirts of Oslo. Her first book, What Do You Think?, was published in 2005, and she has since published several other books for children.

Sandra Steffensen (b. 1987) is an illustrator. Since graduating from the Norwegian School of Creative Studies in Trondheim and the University of Hertfordshire, UK, she has worked full-time with books, theatre and games for children. Her drawing style spans simple, caricatured illustrations to realistic fantasy. Warmth, atmosphere, details and humour are important elements in her work.
