

Vigmostad & Bjørke AS (Ena) 2019
80 pages
Original title: Når er jeg gammel nok til å skyte faren min
ISBN: 9788241950216

FOREIGN RIGHTS

Vigmostad & Bjørke
Elisabeth Godal Sheehy
Rights Manager / Editor
Elisabeth.sheehy@vigmostadbjorke.no

AWARDS

Nominated for the 2020 Nordic Council
Children and Young People's Literature Prize

OTHER TITLES

Little brother is new as the moon

Åse Ombustvedt and Marianne Engedal (ill.)

When am I old enough to shoot my father

This year's most important and painful book is a series of poems for teens.

A nameless teenager lives with a violent father. Through his thoughts and observations, we get up close with a young boy and a family, constantly living in the shadow of a simmering volcano. How does physical and mental abuse affect a young mind? What does this young person carry with him through life and in his encounters with the wider world?

This is a little book about a large and difficult topic which effects more people than we know. Some books can change lives. Maybe even save them. This is one such book.

Åse Ombustvedt and Marianne Engedal (ill.)

Åse L. Ombustvedt (b. 1963) is a teacher and a graduate of the Creative Writing Academy. This is her third book. Ombustvedt was born and raised in Våler, Østfold, and currently lives on Jeløy.

Marianne Gretteberg Engedal (b. 1986) is an illustrator and chef from Haugastøl. She is a graduate of the Faculty of Fine Art, Music and Design at the University of Bergen. Under the alias Skinkeape she regularly publishes her drawings and paintings on Instagram. At the time of writing, she has 55 000 followers.

Vigmostad & Bjørke – Ena forlag