Up a tree

The forest mouse Murphy lives alone in a quiet tree. He is overly concerned with security and predictability. He counts his nuts every morning, and has a stockpile that can last at least two full winters. Murphy is always prepared for the worst possible scenario.

One day a neighbor moves into Murphy's tree - with thundering noises: A squirrel that lives in the moment and loves hopping and jumping, fun and dance. The two neighbours' lifestyles are quickly on a collision course. Murphy has to make a choice. Should he move out or should he throw caution to the wind and join in on the fun and dance?
