Nina Borge

League

As the only girl in her gaming class, Jos has to work hard to earn respect.

Jos has been a gamer for as long as she can remember. All she dreams of is turning pro. With sky-high expectations, she starts out on the e-sports programme at upper secondary school. But as the only girl in the class, it's not easy to stake her claim. An important League of Legends tournament lies ahead, but in e-sports it's the boys who dominate. Are they going to show her respect? Is she even welcome there? How much is Jos willing to sacrifice to reach the top?
