Flowers! From Seedling to Bloom

What is a plant? How does a seed become a flower?

Follow the plant children as they search for a new home and make friends among earthworms, insects, fungi, animals, and birds. Join them through the seasons—from sprouting in spring and blooming in summer, to making seeds in autumn that drift off on new adventures.

Discover the blooming plants all around you—welcome to Flowers!

Rebekka Ween, Sine Hagestad (ill.)

Rebekka Ween (b. 1995) is a botanist and works in teaching and plant research at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology (NTNU). She spent a year living in the Amazon rainforest and still believes that a coltsfoot is just as exciting as a jaguar.

Sine Hagestad (b. 1998) is a marine biologist who loves to draw and to learn about everything that crawls, flies, swims, and sprouts. She is passionate about communicating the importance of protecting biodiversity. Today, she works with the environmental organization BirdLife Norway. Sine has also illustrated the book Birds! Discover the Birds Where You Live.
