K. Mustermann

A postman comes to an apartment building where the name “K. Mustermann” is on all the doorbells. He has a very important letter, with information of a multimillion inheritance, that is to be delivered directly to a person called K. Mustermann. But because he doesn't know what doorbell to ring, he gives up, throws away the letter and leaves. This book shows portraits of all the K. Mustermanns, but we will never know who was the right receiver of the letter.
