Doctor Proktor and the Great Gold Robbery

Doctor Proktor #4

Doctor Proktor, Nilly and Lisa must journey to London to find out who robbed the entire Norwegian Gold Reserve. (It sounds like a lot of gold, but since Norwegians eat so much candy and subsequently need so many gold fillings in their teeth, the Gold Reserve has dwindled to a single bar of gold.) Nevertheless, the trio's mission is to retrieve the gold in time for the annual checkup of the Norwegian Gold Reserve Inspection, or else Norway is sure to plunge into panic and chaos. Disguised as detectives, old ladies and babies they infiltrate the world's most terrifying group of villains, led by a lady so evil not even Scotland Yard dares arrest her. The mission proves to be more complicated than the three friends first thought – not only must they plan a completely impossible counter-robbery, they must also participate in the Premier League finals and challenge the world's most expensive soccer player – Ibranaldovez. Nilly and Lisa bravely join the Rotten Ham soccer team, and use Doctor Proktor's Fartonaut Powder and various other inventions to steer the hopeless underdog team to victory...

Another lighter-than-air exploit from Norway's best-selling novelist, buoyed by alimentary humor and occasional illustrations

- Kirkus Reviews, US

Keeps a quick clip with plenty of silliness and just the right amount of toilet humor...

- Booklist, US

The Doctor Proktor books are gloriously silly, which is exactly what appeals to young readers, who want something exciting to read that will also make them laugh out loud.

- Daily Post, UK

What a crazy story! Just how one's used to from Jo Nesbo and this is just what makes Doktor Proktor so special and endearing. The fourth installment of this series is no exception; a thrilling, dangerous and mischievous adventure for the Norwegian trio.

- Leser-Welt, Germany

Doctor Proktor and the gang yet again provide medicine for bad moods and lacking reading pleasure. Young and old will enjoy this fourth
